The Grain Trade.

Yesterday was a good day in the grain trade, the more favorable tone of Eastern reports giving a fresh stimulus to the market. Receipts of wheat exceeded thirty-five thousand bushels, and shipments fifteen thousand. The ruling price for No. 1 was 72 1-2 to 73c, and for Extra Spring 78c. Corn was firm at 63c; Oats wanted, rye scarce, and barley higher.

The substance of our Eastern Commercial despatches is: flour unchanged, and wheat more active and 1 to 2c higher at New York; and both these articles firmer and in good demand at Buffalo.

POLITICAL SUICIDE OF DOUGLAS .- The Nashville Republican Banner says: It begins to be a current impression that Douglas must be added to the list of political suicides. Harper and copyright are likely to end his days. According to one of our special desparches his friends regard his case as a very critical one.

The Parkersburg News, on the same subjeot, declares that Douglas takes different ground in the Harper article from that which he assumed in the Kansas-Nebraska discussion, and adds: If the doctrines announced by him are to be considered essential pelnetiples in a Presidential canvass, provided he is the Democratic nomines, we do not feel bound by party rules to support him.

The News of the same date contains a lunge puff for HENRY A. WISE.

The Columbia South Carolinian, on the same subject, says:

Having cut loose entirely form the South, and let without any issue to win strength at the North, it plain to be seen that if the South discards this idea of a Congressional slavery tode, Judge Douglar must sin insignificantly between the two great parties. The Richmond Enquirer, at the conclusion of a long article to the effect that Mr. Doug-LAS' views are unconstitutional, says:

But we have much more to say about this very flim sy easay, which we regret to recognize as emanating from the pen of an American statesman. We will no desist entirely until we have shown it up in every phas of the weakness of its fallacy. The Chicago Herald regards DougLAS

"copy-righted" communication in Harper as a bid for black Republican votes, and considers that he will be a formidable competitor against SEWARD next year, for the Republi can nomination.

Senator Douglas at the South.—The Southern papers, following the lead of the Richmond Enquirer, are denouncing Senator Douglas' magazine paper with extraordinary vehemence. The Columbia (S. C.) Guardian has the following comment, which may be taken as a specimen of the views of jour be taken as a specimen of the views of journals of the South: "Of course Mr. Douglas denies that the Constitution does guarantee protection to slave property. The issue is therefore fairly made up between him and the South, and on such an issue the Demograts of the South must part company with him for ever. We recommend all those who might have been induced to take him as 'the best we could get,' to peruse this essay, as we believe it will cause them to repudiate him even, should wards of 12 first yremiums. OUR CANDIDATE FOR LIEUTENANT GOV-ERNOR .- The Buffalo Express speaks in high terms of our Republican State Ticket, and thus specially refers to our popular and eloquent candidate for Lieutenant Governor: Mr. Noble, the nominee for Lieut. Goveris well and favorably known in Western nor, is well and isvorably known in western New York as one of the most effective politi-cal erators in the State while he resided among us. He went from Chautanque county to Wisconsin, and we are gratified to perceive among us. He went from Unantanque county to Wisconsin, and we are gratified to perceive that his abilities and political services are duly appreciated and in a fair way to be properly rewarded.

Carrency Reform.

From Thompson's Commercial Reporter, Sept. 2d.
We last week attempted to be wise in proposing a Currency Reform. Our theory was, to discontinue the issues of paper money by Banks, and inaugurate a paper circulating medium by a State institution, the entire business of which should be to turnish banks and bankers with circulating notes, taking security for their retemption, and redeeming the same with funds provided by the banks and bankers; and, in case of failure to provide funds for redemption, then the State institution to redeem from the proceeds of the deposited securities.

On reflection, we are convinced that our reform is too radical to be adopted. The privilege of making banks notes and calling them money, and the charm of loaning them.

and thus getting interest on what they owe, are advantages not to be surrendered for any public good—not even to save the people from such enormous shaves as the following:

On the first blush these round numbers will appear too large; but we are confident they are too small, taking one year with another, and taking a period of ten or fifteen years, and including the entire shave of the whole community. And still the banks that make, and not the people who lose by the present system of paper money, have the legislative influence to defeat any grand radical reform. On the first blush these round number

On the principle that half a loaf is better han no bread, let the people push on local reforms.

By the force of the Suffolk system, New England currency is redeemed in Boston.

By special law, New York currency is redeemed at New York, Albany, or Troy, but at quarter of one per cent discount.

By special law, Virginia currency is redeemed in Richmond or Baltimore, but at deemed in Richmond or Battimore, but at one quarter of one per cent discount.

The currency of these three sections of the country is uniform, and chiefly converted into specie or exchange.

At present, Missouri, Illinois, and Wisconsin are the worst localities for shaves on currency, sometimes called premium on exchange. A simple act of the legislature of each of these States, requiring their banks to redeem—Missouri in St. Louis, Illinois in Chicago, and Wisconsin in Milwaukee—say at a discount of half, or even one per cent., would change the aspect of the currency very beneficially. But we would not stop here; we would urge every State in the Union to provide for the redemption of its bank issues in the commercial city of the State.

Some such legislative measure, we begin

Some such legislative measure, we begin to think, is the only means by which a sound and convertible currency can be obtained, and the business community relieved of the enormous burthen that they are obliged to submit to under our present banking system in the shape of premium on exchange, or in other words, discount on poor currency .--The "charm" Thompson alludes to, of issuing bank notes, and not only leaning them, thus getting interest on what they owe, but also of evading redemption, and pocketing 'securities," is altogether too overwhelming a temptation for the consciences of Western financiers; and if any real reform in our currency is to be effected, we are fully convinced that it must come from some other source than the bankers.

THE HOLLANDERS .-- The Nieuwshode, the only Dutch paper published in this State, runs up the Republican ticket and gives it a warm and candid support.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE .- The dwelling house DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—The dwelling house of Mr. Gilbert of Otsego, was destroyed by fire on the night of the 31st uit. We have been unable to ascertain the exact amount of damage, but we apprehend the loss must be great, as it was the farm house of a large and well improved farm containing some five hundred acres of land. There was none of the furniture saved—the immates barely escaping the flery clement. The house was not insured—it is supposed to the work of an incendiary.—Columbus Journal, Sept. 7th.

THE CITY.

The Temperance Epidemic. Dreadful as the ravages have been in this community, we can forbear no longer, and must make public the alarming state of affairs. Several gentlemem of the BAR assure us that the dreadful infliction, and consequent thinning of the ranks of intemperance, is owing to the exertions of the Good Templars .-Where the epidemic originated, it would be hard to tell, but that it is raging with fearful virulence in our midst, can no longer be disguised. It attacks—like all scourges—the eld topers, who are wedded to their cups, and they fall-"like the sear and yellow eaf"-from the error of their ways. The society of "Mellow Seeds," that out of disrespect to a worthy organization, changed its name to "Good Tipplers" has been invaded. At the last meeting, two of the prominent ment, to write calmly and dispassionately, but we will endeavor to make a plain statement. It is painful to see the wretched creatures dragged away from their only comfort and lifted into a respectability that almost chokes them from its novelty. It is dreadful to see the fast young man stricken down in our midst, and men who are the SALT of the earth, snatched away from the haunts of pleasure. Chloride of lime won't help matters. Health offices can't inspire confidence. The awful truth is too apparent; this entire community is doomed-doomed to Temperance.

National Fair at Chleago.

This great exhibition commences on Monday next and will continue until Saturday following. During the week the Milwaukee & Chicago Rail Read Co., always prompt to accommodate the public, will run two and three trains daily, at half fare. Their excursion train which will leave here at 5.15 A. M. and return by 9 P. M., giving cight hours in Chicago, to see the sights, is just the thing for the occasion. Read their advertisement and resolve to visit the great Fair at Chicago

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE DEPOTS.—We observe some needed improvements going on at the Rail Road depots, preparatory to the fall business. At the depot of the Milwanthe snug little sum of six per cent. on the kee and Mississippi Rail Road, Messrs. Ax-GUS SMITH & Co., have just erected two spacious platform warehouses for rolling freight, pork, or bagged grain, on either side of the track at the west end of their large elevator. The dimensions of these new buildings are: 150 feet long, fifty feet wide, and one story high, enclosed all round. Each of them is provided with one of Fairbanks largest scales for weighing freight by the car load, and the roof extends across the track, where the scales are placed, to protect them from rain. At the other end of the elevator is another new warehouse, of the same description as

as much other freight as can possibly come have to tell who passed from our shores to America before the enterprise of Lever had found a better route to the New World.

It was flattering to hear the admiration with which some of the passengers—persons who, more than once, crossed the Atlantic—spoke of the officers of the company, Mr. Butler, the agent, especially. The courtesy and attention of this gentleman, and those under him, was frequently and strongly remarked, in contrast with the surly demeanor of the Liverpool officials. our elevators and warehouses will be taxed to their utmost capacity this Fall, receiving storing and shipping the products of the vast agricultural region, now pouring its tressure into the lap of our favorite city. "Antadenistical."-Certain gentlemen term in the following paragraph (from yes- qualities. terday's Sentinel) relative to the decorations at Albany Hall:

The entire design is effective, although somewhat antagonistical in its nationalal and mythological details. Mr. Kunz informs us that it will be completed by Tuesday next. There is, we think, a lack of unity in the general design, resulting from the grouping of different subjects together. Apollo, the god of music, occupies the centre of a modern Italian villa scene. The two muses, Thalia and Terpsichore, are surrounded with Moresque ornaments, and over all, the American Eagle is floating with that same old ribbon, glittering with E Pluribus Unum. To a correct artistical taste, the tout ensemble is jarring, and if "antagonistical" is objected to, we will say it is suggestive of anachronisms rather than harmony of design. We do not impeach the taste of Mr. Kurz He has undoubtedly altered and amended his design to suit every party, and the absurdities, if such they are, only evince the Americanism that was at the bottom of it. We should not be surprised to see a balloon and the Washington Monument mixed up with it. COMBINING BUSINESS WITH PLEASURE .-The Grand Rapids people are an eminently practical people. They appear to have improved upon the maxim of "business first and pleasure afterwards," by losing no oppertunity to combine both. Thus on the cocasion of their recent excursion to this city, after seeing all the "sights," many of them visited some of our wholesale establishments, and the steamship that conveyed them back across the lake had not less than twenty tons of goods on board for Grand Rapids, the result of the business part of the excursion We hope our Grand Rapids neighbors will find that they have been fairly served, and that they may see fit often to renew their visits in the future. THE WELLAND RAILROAD is now finish el from Lake Ontario to Lake Erie. A line of steamers ply in connection with the road from Port Dalhousie on Lake Ontario to Oswego, Kinston, Ogdensburgh, Prescott, Montreal, Portland and Quebec. We refer the reader to the advertisement in an adjoining column. WM. F. HURD is the Agent, at the Milwankee & Mississippi R. R

A SIGN OF RAIN.-A practical friend, who don't believe in barometers, and seldom consults the skies to tell when it is going to rain, called our attention yesterday to a "tsign," which never fails, even in dry weather. It was a pig travelling homeward with a quantity of straw in its mouth. "This," said our informant, "is to protect it against a coming storm. It will rain within 48 hours." Let as see if the pig is really a weather prophet.

The Western country is a grass country poculiarly. Its great prairies contain the germs of countless farinaceous plants that are yearty producing and reproducing themselves in magnificent profusion. We think the western man can appreciate the value of forage plants, and we look upon this book as an invaluable aid, not only to the scientific man, but to the practical farmer. The comprehensiveness of its title is, we find by careful perusal, no evidence of superficiality. "Grasses" include, it is true, a wide range of botanical specification, but the two hundred and members were absent, and the President anwenty-seven different plants treated of in this nounced, with tears in his eyes, that they work, are each seperately dwelt upon, in al their relations to the botanic world, the acrigulturist and the man of science. "Grasses and Forage-Plants" is illustrated bound in substantial style. In speaking of the germinating power of ceds, Mr. Flixt says: It is easy to tell whether the germinative power of grass or other seeds still remain, by the following simple method, and, if the buyer should be willing to try it, he might purchase only a small quantity attirst, and afterwards obtain his full supply with more confidence, if the trial showed it to be good.—

Take two pieces of cloth, moisten them with water, and place them one upon the other in the bottom of a sancer. Place any number of seeds which it is desired to try, upon the cloth, spreading them, so as not to allow them to cover or touch each other. Cover them over with a third piece of cloth similar to the others and moisten in the same manner. It is easy to tell whether the germinative to the others and moisten in the same manner.

Sufficient water must be turned on, from time to time, to keep the three thicknesses of cleth moist, but great care must be taken not to use too much water, as this mould deserve the common water, as 75,000 bushels of grain every day, and this would destroy the seed. There should be only enough to moisten the cloths and not At the Milwaukee and Minnesota Railroad depot, Mr. Hior is building an addition to his elevator, which will enable him to handle 30 to 40,000 bushels of grain in a day, and increase his storage capacity at least 70,000 bushels. The new part of the building is, bushels. The new part of the building is, bushels. The new part of the building is, bushels. In this way also any one may judge whether disceed is mixed with new. We had heard objections raised to it by its competitors that it forms a ridge on the wrong side, which we find to be a mistake; on the contrary we and the stitch much better, the right side being always perfect and even, and the wrong side equally as good as the shuttle or lock titch. The GROVER & BAKER machine admits the use of much finer thread on the under than the upper, being passed both through and around it, thereby making a very firm and elastic seam. The shuttle, or look stitch, requires as large thread on the bottom as on the top, merely crossing each other, and on thin fabrics the thickness of the two threads are equal to the thickness of the material, and when drawn up, the nuder thread will be seen between the stitches and the right side, and the upper thread will be seen on the wrong side. In order to make one side perfect, the opposite one must permit the thread to be straight; in this case there is no elasticity to the seam, the straight thread breaking with the least strain and the ordinary test of washing and ironing frequently destroys it completely. The GROVER & BAKER machine uses the original speed on both top and bottom, thereby saving the inconvenience of rewinding the thread which we believe is necessary with other machines. Its construction is very simple and de rangement seems an impossibility. It is adapted to the entire range of family sewing, from the finest and most delicate texture to the heavier and coarser fabrics. MUNICIPAL COURT-JUDGE FOOTE, PRE-

MAD Dog .-- Last evening a large wiry dog, used in draughting swill about the street, was discovered to be in a rabid state, and, before he could be despatched, attacked a little girl, about ten years old, on Jackson st., between Huron and Detroit. Her clothes were torn completely from her body, and, what is most singular of all, she escaped being bitten. The animal was then driven in to the house of Mr. O'NEIL, causing a general scampering of inmates, and was finally shot by a policeman.

JERMAIN & BRIGHTMAN. Publishers Milwaukee Sentinel

The Duty of the Republican Party. The State Convention which met at Madison on the 31st ult., discharged the duty assigned to it, by presenting to the Republicans of Wisconsin a ticket and platform, eminently worthy of their confidence and suppert. The platform simply re-iterates the principles for which the Republicans of this State have always contended, and the candidates are the exponents and representatives of those principles. To the majority of those candidates no exception is taken in any quarter; but in one, or two localities, objection is made to Governor RANDALL. This cannot be matter of surprise to those who consider how difficult it is for any man, in Executive office, to discharge his duties faithfully, fearlessly and impartially, without giving offence to some friends and embittering personal and political opponents. It is not for us-who have had occasion to censure some acts of Gov. RANDALL's administration-to deny that he has made mistakes. But these have been trifling matters, compared with the general tenor of his official conduct. He is surely entitled to the credit of having always pursued a straight-forward kindred considerations, pointed him out as the man for the place, and will commend him to the suffrages of the People.

Nor is this all. Our principles are at stake in the coming contest. The defeat of the Republican ticket, or any part of it, would be hailed, here and elsewhere, as the overthrow of Republican ascendancy and the repudiation of the distinctive Republican doctrines, in the State of Wisconsin, What good and true Republican, who has fought the good fight through the last four years, and joyfully hailed each successive victory which has crowned our free flag, will halt, or hesitate now? Who is there, in all our serried ranks, that is ready to flinch from his post, forget his faith, or prove recreant to his duty, at such a crisis as now impends in our political affairs?

The vital principle of the Republican organization, is stern, embattled and unyielding resistance to the inroads and aggressions of Slavery. No Republican seeks to meddle with "the peculiar institution" in those States where it is created and protected by local law. It is only against its spread that we protest. It is only where it is sought to make it a "national," instead of a sectional institution, that we propose to fight it.

The last two Democratic Administrationsthose of Pierce and Buchanan-have been Pro-Slavery Administrations and nothing else. While the rights of the Free West have been trampled upon; its interests shamefully betrayed, and its sentiments scoffed at, the whole power and patronage of the Government has been used for the benefit of the South. The next Democratic Administration-should such an infliction befall the country-will follow, in this respect, in the footsteps of its predecessors. There is no escape from this, because the South owns and controls the Democratic party. The only hope for Freedom is in the overthrow of that party at the next Presidential election. Wisconsin is surely counted upon as one of the glorious phalanx of Free States, by whose united efforts this great victory is to be achieved. Let not Wisconsin, then, on the eve of such a contest as that of 1860, lower in disgrace that Republican standard which she has kept uplifted, in honor and triumph, since 1856. Let our vote in November next be an earnest of what we will do in November 1860. And let every man, who values Republican principles and hopes to see them in the ascendant in the councils of the nation. resolve to act in the coming election, as the the success of the good cause, now and hereafter, depended upon his individual influence and vote. So shall we assuredly triumph.

THE NEXT FIELD FOR AGITATION .- Ne osha, or the Indian Territory, as has before been occasionally hinted, is likely to be the next rallying point of the South, for the organization of a new Slave State. Kansas has been thoroughly tried, and at length is to be abandoned. A Kansas Pro-slavery correspondent of the Charleston Mercury significantly writes:

"We have about 2,700 Southern men in Kansas, and they intend emigrating South as soon as Kansas is admitted into the Union. We are connected with a Southern organiza-tion, and including all, we have about 17,000 The next theatre for action will be the Indian Territory south of Kansas, inclu-ding Cherokee, Creek and Cheetaw nations. The South should prepare for this in time, and stand by her territorial rights."

The South should prepare for this in time, and stand by her territorial rights."

RATHER A RICH JOKE.—The Madison Patriot sets down the Wisconsin as "a leading Republican organ," and rejoices over the fact that it seems inimical to Gov. RANDALL.

The Wisconsin is, professedly, a neutral paper, devoted to family affairs, rather than politics, and divides its "favorable allusions" about equally between the opposing tickets.

The Wisconsin, as the Patriot may possibly Republican Committee that their documents franked by the Hon. John Covode could not go through the office, because it was suspected that the did not write his name himself.—Mr. Covode went to the office and acknowledged the frank. Mr. Covode went to see Postmasteriate. Mr. Covode went to see Postmasteriate, the was at a Cabinet meeting. He saw First Assistant King, who shirked the responsibility of a decision.

Messrs. Douglas and Florence have been delicing the whole country with speeches and Quarterly Review circulars without questions for months. That their franks were written by clerks, there is proof positive.— The Wisconsin, as the Patriot may possibly remember, went in strong for Lynde, last April—but did not succeed in electing him.

Is that true democracy? Is that the spirit of harmony and concession that makes democracy national? Or rather is it not war on democracy—disruption of party ties—treach-ery to usage—and baseness to the lowest de-gree? SAM. G. BUGH. Madison, Wis., Sept. 5th, 1959.

ticket among the masses of the people. There is no doubt that it "takes well," and will be be heartily and triumphantly supported. As a specimen of the talk of the country press, we copy the following paragraph: From the Waukesha Freeman, It is with no ordinary faclings of satisfac-tion, that we hoist the Republican Ticket this week. A ticket composed of better men, from first to last, never was, and sould not now have been presented to the electors of this State.

It would be impossible to express the deep satisfaction which the nomination of Gov. Randall gives to the people of this county.— We have been over the county somewhat, and have had intercourse with men from every town, and the universal desire of every one we have met has been for his re-nomination—the universal feeling that with him we could sweep the State with a majority unheard of before. The best hopes of all have been fully realized, not only on Governor, but the whole ticket—and the Republicans of this county will enter upon the cours with a degree of enthusiasm such as they have not known since 1856.

From the Monroe Sentine ! From the Monroe Sentinel.

OUR STATE TICKET.—The Republican party is now in the field with candidates for the suffrages of the people at the approaching State election. The ticket is a good one, worthy to receive the cordial support of the party, and composed of men who will honestly and faithfully administer public affairs which may be committeed to their trust. The party is strong in the State, and with a full yote we can easily cleat the entire ticket. Wa vote we can easily elect the entire ticket. We have been content to take half a loaf in pre-ceding elections, let us now have the whole.

BANK COMPTROLLER,-The Mauston Star, a neutral paper, thus warmly endorses the Republican nomination for Bank Comptroller: This paper is neutral in politics, conse-uently we have nothing to say about the nerits of the candidates named on this tickmerits of the candidates named on this ticket, or on that previously nominated by the democrats. Yet there is one name on the above ticket that, aside from all party feeling, we are pleased to see placed in so honorable a position. We allude to the name of G. Van Steenwyk, the nominee for Bank Comptroller. This gentleman is well and favorably known to the people of this section. They known that his personal responsibility is ample, his education liberal, his habits simple and precise. That as a business man he has sew equals. That he is attentive, careful, prompt, and always exact in his private buslusiness. If he is elected the State will secure lusiness them to the kind most needed in that office. All may feel safe that with Van business talent of the kind most needed in that onice. All may feel safe that with Van in the Comptroller's office, banking securities will not be withdrawn, until the banking parter in circulation is secured by specie deposits. We ask every man who desires to see the banking business of Wisconsin rescued from the controlling influence of "wild cat" bankers and placed on a firm and safe basis, to vote for Gysbert Van Steenwyk, of Columbia county.

Such being the admitted facts, why is it that a Benocratic Convention in Wisconsin hesitates and refuses to acknowledge the Democratic National administration of James Buchanan? Why is it that an affront has been put upon his distinguished efforts; that his endorsement as a Benocrat even, is refused and the merit of his work is turned over the the factors and the merit of his work is turned over the the factors.

It is not our intention here to go into a review of Gov. fuller range for the selection of his sixth or eighth wife than a poor young man of ordi-nary standing has for choosing his first. And I infer that the more sharp sighted young men will not always be content with this.

Since the foregoing was written, I have enjoyed opportunities for visiting Mormons and studying Mormonism, in the homes of its votaries, and of discussing with them what votaries, and of discussing with them what the outside world regards as its distinguishing feature, in the freedom of friendly social intercourse. In one instance, a veteran apostle of the faith, having first introduced to me a worthy matron of fifty-five or sixty—the wife of his youth, and the mother of his growning sons—as Mrs. X., soon after introduced a young and winning lady of perhaps twenty-live summers, in these words: "Here is another Mrs. X." This lady is a recent emigrant from our State, of more than average powers of mind and graces of person who powers of mind and graces of person who came here with her brother, as a convert, a little over a year ago, and has been the sixth wife of Mr. X, since a few weeks after her arrival. (The intermediate four wives of Elder X. live on a farm or farms some miles distant.) The manner of the husband was perfectly unconstrained and off-hand through-out; but I could not well be mistaken in my conviction that both ladder failed to conceal dissatisfaction with their position in the eyes of their visitor, and of the world. They seemed to feel that it needed vindication.— Their manner toward each other was moseordial and sisterly—sincerely so, I doubt not—but this is by no means the rule. A Gentile friend, whose duties require him to travel widely over the Territory, Informs me that he has repeatedly stopped with a Bishop, some hundred miles south of this, whose two wives he has never known to ad-

No argument, or intenence has availed to swerve him from what he believed to be the path of duty, and no suspicion of corruption attaches to a single one of his official acts. The People have felt and rightly felt, that in every great emergency of State, Alexander W. Randout the horizontal before the popular heart, will win him thousands of votes.

There is no pretence that the Convention was not a fair one. No man doubts that it faithfully reflected the opinions and proferences of the Republicans of the State. Few, if any, will deny that Gov. Randle Las acquited himself homestly of the trust confided to his hands two years ago. These, and kindred considerations, pointed him out as kindred considerations, pointed him of him the read to the hands of the convention of him the credit of his official acts.

The old Mormon farmer, with whom I discussed the matter privately, admitted that it was impossible for a poor working man to have a well-ordered household, where his children had two or more living mothers occupying the same ordinary dwelling, the whole, I conclude that Polygamy, was a graft on the original stock of Mor ism, will be outlived by the root—that there will be a new revelation, era many years, whereby the Saints will be admonished to love and cherish the wives they already have. but not to marry any more beyond the natural assignment of one wife to each husband.

This was thinly attended by children, nearly all quite young, and of the most rudimentary attainments. Their phrenological developments were, in the average, bad; I say this with freedom, since I have stated that those of the adults, as I noted them in the Tabernacle, adults, as I noted them in the Tabernacle, were good. But I am told that idlote or malformed children are very rare, if not unknown here. The male Saints emphasize the fact that a majority of the children born here are girls, holding it a proof that Providence smiles on their "peculiar institution;" I, on the contrary, maintain that such is the case in all polyganus country, and provide bec, then, with the Grand Trunk Railway and its connections through the States, Caudada, and, with the St. Lawrence navigable for vessels, of 200 tons to Chicago, 1,600 miles in the interior, is the only port in the world where she can get loaded.

THE PURE WINES OF HUNGARY. STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, 32 Someract St. Boston, July 1st, 1858.

BIATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, MECOMERANCE.

Messra, Freund & Grossinger,

Gentlement-1 received from you eight samples of Red and White Rungarian Wines, which, at your request, I have submitted to chemical malysis. I send you have submitted to the first that these Wines are pure, and they contain nothing but the product of the grape. I can confidently recommend them te the public as good and pure wines, and as not as likely to become sour as the light wines of France.
I exposed my samples forty-eight hours to the air in a warm room, without any souring having take place. in a warm room, without my sourme naving cases place.

The general character of the red Hungarian Wines is that of the Red Burgundy of France, and the White Wines (with the exception of the sweet or deasons what stronger than either of these.

I am satisfied that, when known to the public, the Hungarian Wines will be greatly in favor, and that they will be much sought for.

Respectfully, your obedient scrant,

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME.

BY MRS. S. E. FURMAN.

Solemnly walking with lootsteps weary,
Down where the day grows dim,
Stream the white plannes of a veteran army
Singing their evening hymn.
Gezing anon over death's dark river,
Viewing life's glor one shore,
Walting the call of their skillful Pilot,
And the ferryman's friendly oar.

Bravely ye're kept it bright,
Bowing your forms to the year's sad burdens,
Conce robed in heatity's light.
Strew'd all the way from your cradio dreamings,
Watch'd by a mother's love,
Are the turt-beds of your fond ones sleeping, Heedless of the sighs above.

Ye are the relies beloved and honor'd, Saved from the grand old past; Seft on your brows sit the gens of wisdom, Gracefully unto the last, As gentle flowers of the pale, cold autumn, Bright 'mid the frost dew's blown, So thrive the plants of your kindler feelings, Greenest near the lone chill tomb.

Back in review lies the long, long journey, Winding through the thorns and care, Winding through the therns and care, Brighdy enwoven with God's richt mercies, Cases of beauty rare; And as the bow on the dark cloud resting Tells you the storm is o'er, So on the past gleam thy hopes eternal, Reaching unto heaven's door.

O amid howers wreath'd in faddless roses, Just where life's waters flow. All overhung with the trees immortal, Tremulous with prises low! Waiting you there are the suged brethren, They who in days gone by Left you in tears, and with smiles scruphic Enter'd through the gates on high. Oft when the spirit grew and to fainting, Bearing earth-closs and pain.

Bearing eartheologs and pain, Then far away in the sout-bright regions Heard ye not an Eden strain? Well, twast their lutes breathing softest numbers Soothing thy troubled breast; O weary saints soon yell join the anthems Ringing through the land of rest! Who would not die for thy crown of glory, Who would not die for the crown of glore, By love and labor won? Who would not cover the Saviour's welcome? Servant of God, well doin. Enter ye into my Pather's mansions. For you so long prepared, Joint helrs with me in his glorious riches. Who hath my sufferings shared.

Gratefully time on his fairest record Gratefully time on his falrest record Shall your memorials frace; Deeds luminous with sublime reflections Centuries can be or efface. And as ye, leaving farewell blessings Under each household tree, Heaven will gain in its priceless treasures, Earth will the poorer be.

From Charles Dickens' "All the Year Round."

There is a vast difference between the real and external world and the seeming external world. It is well known that there is a world of internal vision, a plantom world within us, which many and very different causes may invest with apparent substance. The cerebral excitement of fever, those obstructions or organic changes of the brain which produce insanity. Even less; some fullness of blood-vessels as caused the Berlin bookseller Nicolai to behold ocular spectra, may, as well as many other states of being, bring about apparent externity of objects which are really within the camera obscura of the mind. run on, they will entail more serious difficulties upon on you. A dose of Radway's Renovating Resolvent, followed with three or four Regulators, will immediately check and cure a recent cold; and the continued use of the R. R. Remedies will speedily cure the most obstinate Coughs. In many cases of confirmed Consumption it has proved highly efficacious, it acts powerful y upon the laugs, and is a most excellent expectorant. In five minutes it will loosen the phicgm, and give relief to the distressed. In many cases of Asthma, where the patients were almost aufforafed, it has in five minutes given entire relief. In all obstinate cases, each of the R. R. Remedies must be used.

But when he again raised his eyes, there stood Betty with the candle in her hand as before. The command to set it down and go to bed was repeated; but Betty never stirred. At length, when this had happened more than two or three times, the doctor, surprised at Betty's supposed perversity, and thinking she must be afflicted with sudden deafness, put out his hand to whom I was introduced by some old friends of mine, who corroborated the story both by their intimate knowledge of the relator's veracity, and by having heard from other members of his family—who were equally the man to whom I was introduced by some old friends of mine, who corroborated the story both by their intimate knowledge of the relator's veracity, and by having heard from other members of his family—who were equally car-witnesses of the fact—precisely the same was, on this occasion. "Madame de Trop." Then, said Dr. L., I received an unpleasant shock on discovering that Betty was but thin shock on discovering that Betty was but thin air. My hand went through the phantom; but even this did not disperse her apparent corporeal presence. I felt my pulse. I was in a raging fever. from my arm, Betty, till then an obstinate ghost, bent on not going to bed, was laid in the red sea of the wash-hand basin, which I placed to catch the sanguine stream, and with her departed the danger I had run of having a violent illness.

Everybody has not the knowledge and presence of mind of Dr. L. The apparent externity both of sounds and sights, where even but slight bodily ailment can be detected in the sight bodily ailment can be detected in the well alarme even a moderately instructed mind. And if, unfortunately, religion, or rather want of religion, should give a farmatic interure to hypochondriacism, the wretched feelings of the seemingly haunted man will reach their aome. Every one knows of Luther's wrestlings with the Devil, and there exist, I doubt not, many humble Luthers in modern life. Voices, too, out of the air are apt to torment the hypochondriac. Cowper, and Mrs. Unwin who caught the contagion from Cowper, listened for audible communications from the spirit-world; and heard strange things from demon regions.

To such self-wrought impressions as these was increased by the thinness of the departing foliage, the family were assembled in the large drawing-room. Suddenly, about mine o'clock, a maid-servant rushed into the large drawing-room. Suddenly, about interest of the government are found in conjunction many times, that they can be explained by mere two phenomena are found in conjunction many times, that they can be explained by mere concidence. I refer to such cases as are abundant to the first of the property in Janaica, an orphan. This lad was especially considered my servant, and that the whole thing is autopation.

in the street, we suddenly think we see a well-known face and figure, and we are about to bow undoubtedly. But no, the stare of surprise in the person we half salute shows us we were mistaken. We look more narirowly, and we perceive it is not our friend; nay, as we approach nearer, we begin to wohder how we could have taken the stranger for him. They are so unlike. But lo, on proceeding onward a few hundred yards, we do really encounter our man in propuls per-

CITRON. A LOT OF PRIME FOR and Professor Wilson, "was the following:—
I was in Ireland, on a visit to a charming family, where the sons were all brave and the daughters beautiful. With a gay party, in which the element of youth predominated, I went, in the course of this visit, on a pic nice starts in the course of this visit, on a pic nice starts in the second to some visit. went, in the course of this visit, on a pie me excursion to some ruins of an ancient castle in the neighborhood. We were all dotted picturesquely about amongst the mess-grown stones that lay strewn about the inner court of the broken edifice: the turf formed our table, and on this a snow white cloth decorously presented pies, hains, chickens, and lattles to our view.

The thick of the dinner being over, we sat The thick of the dinner being over, we sat still, or lolled in that prolongation of a repast which is the best part of a thing of the sort; but as we knew that, according to the programme, our time was limited, on account of some other spots which we had yet to visit, I was deputed to see, by a reference to my watch, that we did not overstay the hour.—Accordingly, I had placed my watch, a fine old silver warming-pan, the paternal gift, on a low fragment of the ruin that was just opposite me, and in the intervals of conversation I looked at it, though indeed not quite so often as at the face of Mary M. Suddenly—I perfectly remember the hands were pointing to twenty minutes past two in the sunshine—the watch arrested my gaze, while a rough to twenty minutes past two in the sunshine—the watch arrested my gaze, while a remarkable feeling passed over me. I said to myself, but to this hour I know not why, "At this exact time my brother is dying in India." The sensation came and went with the rapidity of those unaccountable impres-

Sions
Which make the present, while the flash delt last, Seem but the semblance of an unknown past. Yet, so much was I struck with the cir-numstance, that, taking out my pocket-book, camstance, that, taking out my pocket-book, saying nothing, however, to anybody as to why I did so, I noted down the day and hour of this strange visitation of thought. I did not exactly place confidence in the provision, yet I could not shake off an unpleasant feeling about it. At length the circumstance became merged in the frequent repetition to myself that it was all "indge"; and I might call it forgotten (there was pienty of time for this, for it was not in the days of steam), when a letter from India brought our family the startling intelligence that my brother had when a letter from India brought our family the startling intelligence that my brother had actually died there the very day when I had made the entry in my pocket-book, and at an hour which, by allowance for latitude, corresponded exactly with that marked by my watch when I had my eyes on it. Our correspondent also informed us that my brother had in his lest recently. and, in his last moments, mentioned me. Such was Professor Wilson's story. My own is as follows: "Many years ago I had a friend who was

"Many years ago I had a friend who was in a bad state of health, but not considered to be in any immediate danger. Indeed, I had heard to he was better, and preparing to remove to a milder climate for the winter.— His passage to Malta was already taken. I was then living at a village in Surrey, my friend, (who had been my patient) was staying at a town in Middlesex, about fifteen miles from me. Though I had been much interested about him, my feelings at that time I speak of were, by the recent death of my taker, drawn off in another direction. Perbans I had not thought of my friend C.S. for haps I had not thought of my friend C. S. for some days, when, as I was sitting at ten with a family party, I suddenly felt myself impela family party, I studenty test myself impel-led, I might say compelled, to call out, in the very midst, too, of other conversation. 'C. S. is dying!' Every one stared. I tried to laugh, and to pool-pool my own excla-mation; but I made a poor hand of it. The sort of way in which I had uttered theominsort of way in which I had uttered the ominous words was so completely a mystery to myself, so exactly as if some one cless had made use of my organs of speech, that I was unpleasantly impressed. However, I did not believe my own prediction, and went to bed without forebodings. I slept soundly, and without draming. But I awoke myself with the sound of my own voice. I was calling out loudly, 'C. E. is dead?' Having a light in my room, I looked at my watch, and saw that it was between three and four in the morning. Two days afterwards I received a letter with a black seal from the friend at whose house C. S. had been staying. C. S. was dead. On the very day, and at the very hour when I had called out, 'C. S. is dying!'—that is, seven in the evening—he had been suddenly seized, as he also sat at tea, (for he had never kept his bed (with a difficulty of had never kept his bed (with a difficulty of breathing. He could no longer support him-self, and was carried up to bed. From that seth, and was carried up to bed. From that time until between three and four in the morning he was dying, and conscious that he was dying. He spoke much of me, and sent me some last messages. His last breath seems to have been drawn at the very moment when I woke myself by crying out, 'C. S. is dead!'

ear-witnesses of the fact-precisely the same recount of it.

The following is the narratine of Mr. G.: Mr. G. lequitor:
"I was living, when I was about eighteen, "I was fiving, when I was about eighteen, with my grandmother and my sisters, in a solitary house in Vorksbire. I am particular in describing to you the sort of house, and its situation, because that has something to do with the story. It was a kind of old manorhouse, square and solid, that stood on the highest part of a wide and barren wold.—
There were no large trees near the house, only a few shrubburies, and even these were no acts one man, that the whole thing is automated, neither does he imagine, where two phenomena are found in conjunction many lines, that they can be explained by mere coincidence. I refer to such eases as are abing dauly to be found described and stated with undentable evidence in a multiplicity of works; cases where apparitions of a distant friend are beheld by persons at the moment of the death of that friend. The number of such acts ease, and the great possibility of their recurrence, is a strong argument with me in favor of a certain mysterious influence of human creature on human creature, which it will call thought-impressing.

Here, then, I take the two principles in combination, namely:

Ist. Whatever is perceived by us, however seemingly external, exists to us only in our own consciousness.

And Man has on man an influence, emanating from mind, and from posular states of carebral excitement; an influence, emanating from mind, and from posular states, of carebral excitement; an influence, emanating from mind, and from posular states, of carebral excitement; an influence which may, occasionally, touch the springs of consciousness within another's brain.
